Arizona Department of Housing

ADOH

Safe, Affordable Housing for all Arizonans

$8 BILLION
invested in state housing projects since 2002

The Arizona Department of Housing (ADOH) is a cabinet-level agency created in 2002 by the State legislature to serve as the State's primary agency to address housing issues. Primarily funded through Federal resources and fees, the agency administers and allocates housing and community development resources, serves as the state Public Housing Authority and Performance-Based Contract Administrator, and regulates Arizona's manufactured housing and building industry.

MISSION
Providing quality affordable housing, safe manufactured buildings, and community revitalization to benefit all Arizonans

When adequately housed, individuals, families, and communities flourish; without adequate housing, every aspect of life suffers as a result, including health, education, and the entire welfare of the community. As Arizona continues to grow and the economic and housing needs of its population evolve, the Department is in a position to recognize changing market conditions and to respond accordingly. Creative solutions are developed to be responsive to both rural and urban housing issues, and much of the Department's focus is on assisting Arizona's most vulnerable populations.

VISION
Safe, inclusive, livable AZ communities and affordable housing options for all

The Department is working toward sustaining current initiatives and implementing new programs (such as funding the acquisition and conversion of hotels into transitional housing for the homeless), while simultaneously maintaining the flexibility to respond to new demands for affordable housing and homelessness services. The Department primarily acts as a funding and financing pass-through agency, with community partners providing the bulk of the hands-on assistance in actually delivering the programs and resources entrusted to the agency. Striving to achieve our mission and vision, we provide opportunities for Arizonans to live in their own homes by developing and implementing funding options that lead to strong, vibrant, affordable communities.
